

History of Kuskitannee Lodge

Kuskitannee Lodge is the result of the consolidation of two lodges, Unalachtigo 168, founded in 1939, and Packanke 419, founded in 1949. They merged in 1973 when Lawrence County Council and Pioneer Trails Council consolidated. The number 168 was retained partly because Lodge 168 was the older lodge. Thus Kuskitannee was formed from Unalachtigo 168 and Packanke 419.

Our lodge history was researched, compiled and written by Dean Antoniazzi, who used all the resources he could find to make this accurate. W. Craig Spink, Terry Groth and Dan Brown helped with editing. Some data on section leadership came from a history of western Pennsylvania OA leadership compiled by Tom Price of Wagion Lodge.

History of Unalachtigo Lodge 168

William F. Livermore, Scout Executive of what was then Butler Armstrong Area Council, is recognized as the founder of Unalachtigo Lodge 168. In 1939, he conducted the first Ordeal Ceremony of Lodge 168, having been secretary of the national Order of the Arrow. From that humble beginning, the lodge advanced under the trained leader who gave the unit an extra spurt.

The name of the lodge, Unalachtigo, is in the language of the Delaware Indian and means "eastern wild turkey". The Wild Turkey was chosen as the totem of the lodge because it was hunted by the Indians in the area of what is now Butler County.

The first ceremonial was held, in 1939, on the old ball diamond at Camp Bucoco, which is believed to have been located in what is presently the parade field, south of the Dining Hall. There was no fire at that ceremony at which William Graham became chief.

In 1942, the first Brotherhood ceremony was conducted inside Camp Bucoco's old headquarters building. This building was the old cook's cabin. The Brotherhood ceremony was not moved to the outdoors until after World War II, in 1945. During these years, membership in Brotherhood was obtained by election only after serving a minimum of two years as an Ordeal.

In 1947, Arch McKinney, who was a member of Wagon Lodge 6 in Westmoreland County Council, came into Unalachtigo Lodge 168 as a Vigil member. His move was the result of Butler-Armstrong Area Council taking in three townships in Westmoreland County, including Apollo and Vandergrift. The new council was named Pioneer Trails Council. Hence, McKinney was the first Vigil Member of Unalachtigo, since he came with the tract. The Vigil honor was not conferred on McKinney by Unalachtigo.

The first conferred Vigils in Unalachtigo Lodge were Ralph "Pop" Charlton and William C. Graham, first lodge chief from 1939 to 1942.

In 1946, an arrowhead shaped fireplace was built in the council ring, which is now the Delaware campsite. Ceremonies for the lodge were held at this site until 1951. With the enlargement of the camp, OA members realized there was a need for a more secluded and larger council ring to provide facilities for the 1951 Area Conference. A new site was selected and a council ring created. In 1961, that site became what is presently the Blackfoot campsite. The OA moved deeper into the woods to the site of the present council ring. The first ceremonies were held here in the fall of 1961.

As the Order of the Arrow matured, it was decided that nearby lodges should convene for training and friendship, so the nation was divided into Areas.

Unalachtigo was initially placed in Area F and some members of Lodge 168 attended the first Area Meet at Camp Twin Echo (ed. 2013: currently part of Laurel Highlands Council), in 1948. From 1949 until 1953 Lodge 168 was in Area III-B and Lodge 168 hosted the III-B Area Meet at Camp Bucoco in 1951. From 1953 until 1973, Lodge 168 was in Area III-F. Area Meets (currently called Section Conclaves) were hosted at Bucoco in 1957, 1962, and 1968.

It appears that Unalachtigo 168 of Moraine Trails Council attended the 1973 Area III-F meeting in September 1973.

As of 2014, there are still several men who were members of Unalachtigo Lodge 168 who are still members of Kuskitannee Lodge 168. They are Keith Duncil, Ray Dunn, Jim English, Clyde Jones, Ron Miller and Dennis Rickard.

Packanke Lodge 419

Packanke Lodge 419, chartered to Lawrence County Council, was organized August 4-5, 1949, by a group of Scouts and Scouters, and a field executive from the “mother lodge” of Erie. A total of 15 were united into that organization. The group took their Ordeal and were initiated at Camp Sequoyah (ed 2013: no longer a BSA property). Those taking part were Scout Executive T. G. Allen, Field Executive John D. Lawson, Jim Norton, Jack Brooks, Frank Connor, Bill Hauschild, Byron Brooks, Charles West, Willis Peacock, Harry Wright, Jim Kennedy, Ray Zeigler, N. J. McCluskey, Charles Follette and Robert Leasure.

After being accepted into the Order of the Arrow, at Sequoyah, the group returned home and the following October put on its first Ordeal at Camp Agawam, the Lawrence County Council camp. It was two years before Packanke had its first Brotherhood member and not until 1955-56 did Lodge 419 gain its first Vigil Honor member.

Packanke Lodge was part of area III-B through all its 24 years. The members of Lodge 419 attended all Area and national functions. At times, the delegations were not large but the members were enthusiastic. III-B Area meets were hosted by Packanke at Camp Agawam in 1956 and 1965. At the 1965 Area III-B Conclave, Lodge 419 won ribbons in the phys-o-rama and other events for a total of eight.

The lodge chose Chief Packanke, prominent leader of the Munsee (Wolf) Clan of the Delaware tribe and chief of the Kuskies town Indians, about 1749, as the totem. The original patch was green and white with the chief’s profile on it.

In addition to being active in attending area and national events, Lodge 419, in “being mindful of our higher traditions we have strived to promote Scout camping, but have also spent hours in service work at Agawam for its improvement and the benefits of future campers,” the Packanke historian wrote in 1965. The lodge presented Camp Agawam with a canoe and several rowboats that year. They also provided several tables and chair sets for the camp dining hall.

According to the 1973 III-B Area Meet booklet, Packanke Lodge ceased to exist at the end of that event on August 19, 1973. As of 2014, the members of Packanke Lodge 419 who are still active members of Kuskitannee Lodge 168 are Tom Patton, Dale Siar and Gene Singer.

Legend of Packanke Chief Packanke Friend of the White Man

There is more tradition and spirit behind Lodge 419 than a list of names. When the OA at New Castle selected Packanke as their totem they had behind the selection the tale of a great figure in Indian Lore.

Chief Packanke played a big role in helping the English and white settlers in defeating the French who claimed the Western Pennsylvania section. He was one of the first Indian warriors and leaders won over to Christianity.

Chief Packanke was first mentioned as being at Kuskuskies town, now New Castle, about 1749. The Munsees were a division of the Delaware tribe who lived on the upper reaches of the Delaware River above the Lehigh River junction, which empties into the bigger river in Easton, Pa.

Packanke is mentioned again by Christian Frederick Post, a Moravian lay missionary and Colonial emissary who was sent into Western Pennsylvania by the Provincial Philadelphia government to try to lure the Delawares away from the French who were laying claim to that Wilderness area. Post wrote in his personal journal of 1758 that Chief Packanke was one of the Indian leaders at Kuskuskies who helped keep the French forces and their Indian allies split while Gen. John Forbes on Nov. 25, 1758, captured Fort Duquesne at what is now Pittsburgh.

Post may have started the conversion of Packanke to Christianity on his trips, first in July 1758, and again, in November 1758.

White men and their families poured into the wilderness area after Fort Duquesne, at the "Forks of the Ohio", fell and became Fort Pitt. With the coming of more white settlers, many Indians moved further west into the Ohio Territory. Chief Packanke was one of these. Some of the Kuskuskies went to the Tuscarawas Valley in what is now New Philadelphia, Ohio.

Our data on the chief is sparse from the time of the move about 1772 when Moravian missionaries and Delaware Indians are known to have begun Schoenbrunn Village southeast of today's New Philadelphia. They occupied some 60 dwellings here but the village was abandoned in 1777 probably due to the stepped-up border warfare by the British and Indian allies as the Revolutionary War increased in intensity.

There is a cemetery called "God's Acre" in Schoenbrunn Village, which has been reconstructed with a schoolhouse, a church, a museum with recovered relics and other log cabin buildings similar to those built by the Moravians and Delawares. Buried in that cemetery is a man called "Solomon", a Christian name given to Chief Packanke, once the mighty brave and proud chief of the Wolf Clan. Packanke was believed to have been baptized at Lawunakkanek (today East Hickory, on the Allegheny River above Tionesta, Pa.) Dec. 25, 1769 by David Zeisberger.

Chief Packanke was admitted to Holy Communion March 28, 1771 and had only four years to enjoy life with the Moravians at Schoenbrunn. These must have been trying years with the British fighting the Colonials and the Indian not understanding how a few decades before, the British and Colonial settlers were allies. Packanke was probably a puzzled old man when he died at Schoenbrunn Village Sept. 28, 1775.

It would be a nice gesture on the part of the Lodge 168 Arrowmen if they made a pilgrimage to Schoenbrunn to pay tribute to the chief of the Kuskuskies, one of their "own" Indian heroes

It is with much pride that 419 brought Packanke into the present lodge "fold."

Kuskitannee Lodge

When Pioneer Trails Council and Lawrence County Council consolidated in 1973 to form Moraine Trails Council, it appears that there was much dissent to the merger. The two lodges, Unalachtigo 168 and Packanke 419 continued to operate independently throughout most of 1973 which explains why there are chiefs listed for both Unalachtigo and Packanke. Unalachtigo's final event appears to have been the 1973 Area III-F meeting in September of 1973. Packanke's final event appears to have been the Area III-B meeting in August of 1973. As of this writing, this author has been unable to locate any record of activity of Kuskitannee 168 until the spring of 1974.

The lodge name selected for the new lodge was Kuskitannee Lodge #168, W.W.W. The name was derived by using Kusk from the Kuskuskiees, and Kittany, the name of the trail which stretched across Butler County from New Castle to Kittanning and also the name of a village on the Allegheny river. The totem selected was the Brook Trout which inhabited Slippery Rock Creek, which bound the two council camps, Agawam and Bucoco. The lodge neckerchief and pocket flap naturally bear this totem. A lodge fighting song was adopted. Special T-shirts and jackets were also soon available and caps given to active working Arrowmen of the lodge bore the insignia.

Kuskitannee's first chief was Bill Wilson of New Castle. The lay advisor was Harry Wright also of that city. Professional advisor was Bruce D. McElroy, program director of the council. As of this writing, this is in dispute as two other names are listed as first advisor of Kuskitannee: Ole hunter and Clyde Braun.

The new lodge went to DuBois, Pa., Camp Mountain Run, to the final Area III-B Conclave Aug. 17-19, 1973. (ed. the 1973 III-B Meeting program booklet states that Packanke Lodge 419, Moraine Trails Council would cease to exist at the end of this event) After that, National realigned and Kuskitannee became part of Northeast Section 5-C.

In 1975, Kuskitannee Lodge hosted the Section 5-C Conclave at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Lawrence County, with the young lodge's officers getting into the "thick of the action". It was thought the college would give the section meeting a new atmosphere.

In 1983, Lodge #168 hosted the 5-C Conclave at Camp Bucoco as the policy shifted again. More than 300 Arrowmen attended that meeting.

Kuskitannee with its traditions of two fine lodges behind it continued to offer leadership at the Area level. It grew stronger and in 1977 adopted new by-laws to keep up with national OA changes.

In the early 1980's, Glacier Ridge District senior executive Vincent Dunn, who joined the council in 1979, became the lodge's staff advisor. Under his tutelage, Lodge 168 earned four E. Urner Goodman Camping Awards for its excellence. Dunn pushed the lodge hard and helped to weld it into one of the finest in the nation. He retired and left the council after the June, 1991 conclave which was hosted at Camp Bucoco.

A special patch was designed to mark the tenth year of the lodge and more activities were scheduled. Now there would be the Fellowship winter weekend, the Spring Ordeal, the Big Three, after camp closed, and the annual Father-Son dinner. Special awards, like a hat, and pins would be given to members who attended the four most important yearly events. In '90, at the recognition dinner three members received their 11th pin for 11 years of full participation.

By 1988, Kuskitannee had hosted 5-C Section Conclave and furnished at least three Section Chiefs. George Andrews, was elected lodge chief, then became Section Chief, then later was Northeast Region Chief. Tony Sbarra, Jr., in 1983, and Thom Gaiser were also section chiefs. Other lodge members have been secretary or held other posts.

In 1984, the lodge erected the beautiful metal lettered sign at the entrance to Camp Bucoco on Route 8 north of Butler.

Bill Graham, first lodge chief of Unalachtigo, estimated in 1989 that between 4,500 and 5,000 youth and men had become members of the lodge from 1939 as the lodge marked its 50th anniversary July 22, 1989 at Bucoco.

When Kuskitannee 168 became official on January 2, 1973, officers to help Bill Wilson, chief, were: Ron Badger, also of New Castle, vice chief; Dave Bock, secretary, and Tony Lucas, treasurer, also of New Castle. W. A. Waggett, council program director, was the professional advisor, and lay advisors were Ole Hunter, and William Clark, associate. Harold Ramsey of New Castle, designed the Brook Trout blue patch.

The new lodge was ready for action at both Bucoco and Agawam. About 30 members attended the final III-F Conclave at California State College of PA, hosted by Kiasutha #57, Allegheny Trails Council. Neal Bronder, Lodge 168, was the last area chief for Area III-F.

In June, 2008, Kuskitannee was moved from section NE-4B to the new section NE-4A
In service, Lodge 168 has contributed to both camp Bucoco and camp Agawam. Such projects have included erecting a brand new sign for camp Bucoco in 1984 and are responsible for many roofing projects. These projects could not have gone underway without the help of many of Kuskitannee's lodge chiefs.

In 2010, Kuskitannee Lodge received a National Service Grant from OA National for $2500. The lodge added $5000 to this to install lightning detection and warning systems at both Camp Agawam and Camp Bucoco.

Rae's Cabin: Kuskitannee Lodge has a building dedicated to the exclusive use of the lodge. It is located across the parking lot from the trading post at Camp Bucoco. It was built to honor the memory of Rae Creasy, one of our youth members who passed away at the age of 14 from cystic fibrosis.

Rae W Creasy was born July 1, 1984. When he was old enough, he became a Cub Scout and then a member of a short lived Boy Scout Troop, Troop 734, in Neshannock Twp. (New Castle, PA). He joined Troop 733 in New Wilmington and was soon elected to membership in the Order of the Arrow and took his Ordeal in August 1996 at just a bit over 12 years of age.

He became a brotherhood member of Lodge 168 in August 1997. He served the lodge as a member of the Lodge Executive Committee. He was Service Chairman, and Chairman of the Brotherhood and Elangomat Committees, and also served on the Dance Team where he was a traditional dancer and hoop dancer. There is a picture of him, in uniform, on the wall of Rae's Cabin. The Boy Scouts and especially the Order of the Arrow were his favorite activities.

From birth, Rae suffered from a nasty disease called Cystic Fibrosis which affects the digestive system and respiratory system. Rae never complained about his problems. He was always very enthusiastic and involved with the lodge activities.

He was reviewed and recommended for the rank of Eagle on September 29, 1998. In late October 1998 he developed pneumonia. On the evening of November 4, 1998 his Eagle badge was pinned on to his hospital gown while he was in Childrens' hospital in Pittsburgh. His father noticed that there were tears in his eyes. Twelve hours later, at 7:30 AM on November 5, 1998, he went home to be with the Creator. His body simply was not strong enough to fight the pneumonia. He was just 14 years old.

His family wanted to do something in his memory for his favorite group. Rae's Cabin is that something and Kuskitantee Lodge 168 is that group. He loved the Boy Scouts but he really loved the OA and his fellow Arrowman brothers.

The gift was announced at the lodge banquet in February 1999. Ground was broken in March 1999 and the building was dedicated in August 1999. That is a truly ambitious timeframe for any building, but even more so when you realize two things;

- 1) The family donated funds for all the materials. And,
- 2) The labor was 100 percent volunteer. Not one penny was spent on labor. Rae's grandfather and father, friends, troop, fellow arrowmen, and more than a few people that never even met Rae, showed up to help. Every weekend from March through August there were anywhere from 3 to 70 people at Camp Bucoco working on what was to become Rae's Cabin.

This building is dedicated to the exclusive use of Kuskitantee Lodge. Lodge executive committee meetings, dance team practice, ceremony team practice and other lodge specific activities are held there. Only good thoughts, good actions, good things take place there. There is a lot of fun, a lot of laughter and a lot of important work done in Rae's cabin.

National Competitions:

The Kuskitannee Lodge Northern Drum team took first place at the 2004, 2006 and 2009 NOAC competitions. Kuskitannee Lodge is the only Lodge ever to win this three times in a row. Andy Meyer won 3rd place for dance at the 2009 NOAC. Dillon Ward won first place for chicken dance at the 2012 NOAC.

E. Urner Goodman Camping Awards: 1982, 1983, 1985, 1989, 2012
